

INFORMS OF FBI'S INVESTIGATION IN THE TIME OF WAR

John F. Sears, Chief Agent of FBI, Speaks to Exchangeites

SOME GUESTS PRESENT

Relates How Subversive Workers Are Tracked Down by Agents

John F. Sears, chief agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the Philadelphia district, was the guest speaker last evening at the meeting of Bristol Exchange Club at the Elks' Home.

Mr. Sears was introduced by Roy F. Fry, police commissioner of the Borough. Guests of the Exchange Club for this occasion were Linford Jones, chief of police; and Clifford Hagerman, fire chief, of Bristol.

The speaker told of the work of investigation of the FBI during the war period. "Early in 1939 it was quite evident from the nature of the intelligence reports from Europe that we were approaching a world war," he said. Accordingly, through the presidential powers, efforts were made to co-ordinate the work of the army and navy intelligence departments and the FBI, with the latter being responsible for the civilian population, and the Army and Navy being responsible for their respective branches.

During 1940 the Bureau of Investigation contacted the presidents of our chief industrial plants and plans were formed to control subversive activities and to prevent efforts of sabotage on the part of enemy agents. At the time of the Pearl Harbor attack the country had been on war program for one year. The effectiveness of this program is evident when the statistics of sabotage cases and the individual cases of apprehended aliens who were sent to this country for subversive purposes are studied. England has had less than 20 hangings, and the United States has made six individuals pay the death penalty for their activities.

"Espionage is trying to find out what the other side is doing and to prevent as much as possible their efforts to secure information. In one case the Gestapo's efforts at espionage became a boomerang when a German-born, upon returning to his own country, was contacted by the Gestapo and pressure brought to bear upon him by threats to his German relatives unless he co-operated with them. The individual when forced to comply, agreed to attend the German Espionage School and received training and was eventually sent to this country by boat. He then 'crossed' the Germans by sending word for FBI agent to contact him on the boat. This individual was then used by the FBI as a counter-espionage agent for the United States and we had a direct contact for many months with the German agents."

Mr. Sears mentioned the Ludwig

SOVIET MECHANIZED ARMIES BATTLE GERMAN TANK UNITS

Moscow—Gigantic Soviet mechanized armies battled German tank units for possession of Breslau today and—according to Berlin broadcasts—massed for a full-scale crossing of the Oder River under a terrific artillery barrage.

While a German military spokesman admitted that Russian forces had penetrated to the vicinity of the frontier of Brandenburg Province which embraces Berlin, the battle of Breslau reached a new pitch of intensity with Russian units closing in from the north and southeast.

It was accompanied by another savage tank engagement between the cities of Gleiwitz and Hindenburg to the southeast of Breslau in industrial Silesia.

A Reuter dispatch from Moscow reported without confirmation that the Russians had crossed the Warthe River north of Posen. The dispatch said this indicated that the Russians were beginning a drive on Frankfurt on the Oder, last defense bastion on the road to Berlin.

Reports reaching Moscow said the Germans had moved up still more reserves to the Silesian front. Admitting the advancing Russians were met by big enemy army groupings, Red Star said that new Soviet tanks "before which the German tigers are turning into lambs" have gone into action in Silesia.

Soviet spearheads were reported still some 140 miles east of Berlin itself but the Germans admitted a mounting threat to the capital's approaches. No reports received in Moscow indicated any appreciable slowing down in the pace of Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin's great "on to Berlin" offensive.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

A former assistant principal of Perkaskie schools, is a prisoner of the Japanese. The prisoner, Eberhart M. Smoyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Smoyer, Emmaus, was taken prisoner by the Japanese in the raid on the Philippines on December 7, 1941, although no word was received from the Japanese government until the past week.

Mr. Smoyer, employed in the Philippines since 1911, is listed as a prisoner of war in a card received by his brother, Guy, of Emmaus. The family has had no direct word from Mr. Smoyer since the "Jap" raid which resulted in the fall of the Philippines.

Relatives learned through the Philippine Dissociated Coconut Corporation, which employed Mr. Smoyer, that he was taken prisoner. This word came through on August 27, 1943. No information was relayed by the Japanese government until more than a year later.

Mr. Smoyer was employed by the Perkaskie School District in 1909. The same year he took a position with the Federal Civil Service Commission in Washington, and in 1911 went to the Philippines as a government school teacher and plantation executive. In 1938 he returned to the United States to visit relatives and returned to the Philippines to join the staff of the coconut firm.

Cooperation and organization on the part of the farmers was emphasized by Reuben A. Martin as he discussed the outlook for the farmer during 1945 at the meeting of Warrington Farmers' Club at Chalfont on Tuesday.

Farmers, he said, can look forward to a satisfactory year, if they are willing to cooperate and organize.

The government he said is calling for a greater production of potatoes, cotton and corn, but at the same time, said Mr. Martin, it is trying to establish ceiling prices on these commodities. Prior to this, it was said, prices were established on the basis of supply and demand. As a whole, the members were informed, the farmers can look to a fairly good year.

The meeting was in charge of the new president, Clarence L. Detweiler.

Mr. Detweiler appointed the following committee chairman: agricultural, Norman Lapp; education, Mrs. Carroll B. Keck; legislative, G. Frank Shutt; health and hygiene, Mrs. G. Frank Shutt; membership, Norman S. Cornell; and floral, Mrs. Mark Quimby.

The Rev. Charles F. Freeman, pastor of Salem Reformed Church, Doylestown, addressed the Doylestown Kiwanis Club on the occasion of the club's observance of the

TELL ROTARIANS ABOUT THE CANTEN

Three Members of Adult Council Explain Objects, Purposes and Needs

A PIANO IS NEEDED

Three members of the Adult Council of Bristol's Teen Age Canteen spoke to members of the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Adolph Ancker, Mrs. Robert D. Brooks and Mrs. Carl Foell told of the aims, plans and needs of the Canteen.

"We plan to make the Canteen a community project," Mrs. Ancker told the Rotarians. "It is being sponsored by local people and organizations only."

"Our youth want to be understood . . . heard as well as seen," Mrs. Ancker continued. "And they will be glad of the opportunity to have a place where they can meet two evenings a week. It will be their very own canteen."

"There will be space devoted to games and reading rooms and the schools have designated members for a Youth Council. And this Council must be recognized and given responsibility . . . the adults should not take all the power out of their hands. The youths are proud. They want help, naturally, but they want to operate the canteen themselves."

CHINA IS A WORTHY ALLY, WM. R. JOHNSON INFORMS BRISTOL HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS; SPEAKER REPATRIATED AFTER INTERNMENT

A missionary, active in the China field from 1907 until he was repatriated in 1942 after being interned by the Japanese, spoke to Bristol high school students yesterday afternoon.

The address on the subject of "China Today" was delivered by William R. Johnson, who was engaged for the greater number of his years in China in educational work at Nanchang. Mr. Johnson, who returned to the United States on the "Gripsholm" in 1942, prefaced his information on China's recent history and how she is meeting her multiple problems, with information regarding his internment.

Details of his stay at Hong Kong were graphically given, the large group of civilians taken into custody there being later cramped in the grounds and officers' houses at Stanley prison on Stanley peninsula. Informed that they could take with them only what they could personally carry, Mr. Johnson stated that the most priceless items he had carried in were carefully selected items of food which had been purchased to take into interior China for the Red Cross. That planned airplane trip had necessarily been cancelled. "Some of the rooms at the prison building had been shelled, and with shortage of material were not repaired. There we were, sleeping 10 to a room which measured 14x17 feet. In some rooms conditions were even more crowded."

That the worst handicap was lack of sufficient food is readily noted when it was learned that for an adult only 2,000 calories were allowed per day, this being reduced later to 1,300 calories per day. "Even with the extra food we had I lost 24 pounds in five months, and developed symptoms of pellagra," commented the speaker.

That China was far from prepared to fight a war she has been forced to fight was one point stressed. The great lack of union in that vast country has been another drawback, this condition being brought about by civil wars. The serious problems of finance when faced by a long war also harassed the leaders.

The students were interested to learn that for a time Generalissimo Madame Chiang Kai Shek resided next to the Johnsons. The "first lady" of China requested the

Mrs. Dugan reported on success of the recent card party. Plans for another card party were also discussed.

It was stated that pupils will continue to sell pies and cakes, in order to secure funds for playground equipment.

Following a commercial demonstration by a guest, a tempting repast was served by Mrs. Frank Milnor, Mrs. Douglass and Mrs. Jacob Haeblerle.

WALLACE AND THE COMMON MAN

Wallace and his supporters are basing their claim for the right of Wallace to become the economic dictator of America on the assertion that he is the friend, champion and defender of the "common man."

Let's examine that claim.

First, who is Wallace? He is leader of one of the most radical and Communist-minded groups in America, one in which Hillman and Browder are eager fellow-travellers.

Back of dream-like visions of a rosy, regimented future which Wallace sees are the harsh realities of the Russian pattern and German State-Socialism.

The individual is nothing, in such a program; it is the state which is supreme.

Needless to say, the hysterical, fervid support which Wallace gives to his plan for total government would be somewhat lessened if someone other than himself were pictured as the all-powerful boss.

What has Wallace done in the past? He is a farm-raised boy who drifted into public life under the stimulus of a mixed religious and political complex of being a Moses to lead America into the promised land.

He had been prominent in the New Deal during many troubled years when clear vision, courage and candour were most urgently needed for national unity and direction.

In those years, his voice has been always on the side of disunity; he has uttered innumerable class-distinction tirades. Everyone who opposed him, or even questioned him, was promptly labelled a "fascist."

Has he handled money? Oh, yes! Some twenty billion dollars in the Federal Department of Commerce.

Much of this went into one of the somewhat dizzy programs which float about in Wallace's mind—"planned scarcity."

He set about making farmers earn more by producing less.

He sent out government checks to pay for slaughtering pigs and plowing under corn—as a means of preparing this nation for the all-out war even then clearly in the making.

And where does the common man come in? Wallace says he's going to find him a post-war job.

What the common man needs do, under the Wallace plan, is to give up any hope of independence and self-reliance—to become a serf in a vast economic prison.

But even that is not quite all the common man is asked to do; he must also surrender most of the title and value of whatever property he owns.

No single voice in the entire New Deal yet has been raised to appeal for the maintaining of the national credit.

In no New Deal economic program is there the slightest semblance of a plan to repay War Bonds or to support the financial structure into which is enmeshed all bank savings and insurance funds.

It would be going too far, of course, to say that Wallace and his crowd actually plan to freeze or repudiate War Bonds, bank accounts and insurance.

But the facts show that they are doing nothing to protect them—and that they already have a full alternative program to start lending and spending all over again if the present credit structure falters.

Under Wallace's program for the common man, he

Although the temperature was five degrees higher at eight o'clock this morning than it was at the same hour yesterday, the mercury did not get higher than 11 degrees throughout the 24 hour period ending at eight today.

The sub-freezing weather continued this morning, with some promise of abatement this afternoon and tonight.

The mercury ranged at 10 and 11 degrees above zero between the hours of three p. m. yesterday and two a. m. today. Then it commenced a downward march, reaching five degrees at eight o'clock.

Both the driver of a coupe in which a passenger was killed and the driver of a truck into which the coupe crashed in a fatal accident were exonerated of all blame by a coroner's jury, last night.

The inquest conducted by Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, was held in the Bristol Municipal Building with the following serving as jurors: Ralph Ratcliffe, foreman; James H. Brooks, Irvin Scheffey, George Hudson and Daniel Ferry, Bristol; and Elmer Vansant, Cornwells Heights.

DISCUSS MATTERS CONCERNING CANTEN

At a meeting of the Bristol Youth Council yesterday afternoon, Walter Rosser of the Bristol High School faculty, was elected vice-chairman.

Last evening the executive committee of the canteen consisting of both youths and adults, met and discussed matters relative to the opening of the canteen. Registration dates for the canteen membership will be announced shortly. The property committee expressed disappointment in the lack of civic response to the call for furnishings. They are still in need of such articles as chairs, sofas, card tables, lamps, magazine racks, etc. Anyone wishing to donate any of these articles can call Dr. J. Fred Wagner. The canteen group will arrange for collection of these articles.

Meanwhile the Finance committee announced the following contributions: Keystone Hotel, $10; Junior Travel Club, $20; Clyde Waterman, $10; E. Keller Fox, $20. These amounts bring the total to $165, which is far short of the $500 goal set. Anyone desiring to contribute, can address their checks to William Bartholomew, 709 Radcliffe street, Bristol, Pa.

AMERICANS LAUNCH DRIVE TO WIPE OUT NAZI BULGE

Paris—American assault forces launched a powerful attack against the center of the Ardennes salient today in what the Germans described as a drive to iron out the Nazi bulge, while other American units in the Rhineland brought the determined Nazi drive on Strasbourg to a dead stop. The German DNE agency reported that the American attack was centered against the areas of St. Vith and Houffalize in the Belgian bulge and added that U. S. troops had captured "several villages."

A dispatch from the U. S. First Army front said that American forces captured the towns of Amel and Mirfield, both about six miles northeast of St. Vith, while other units threw the Germans out of Medill, three miles north of St. Vith.

Front reports from the U. S. Sixth Army group in the Rhineland said that the Germans who crossed the Moselle two miles west of Haguenau in the general Nazi drive on Strasbourg were clinging tenaciously to river-bank positions in the face of withering fire from massed artillery but were expected to retreat across the river in a matter of hours.

The deepest German penetration of over a mile was scored in an enemy drive to Schillersdorf where the Nazis were stopped and then thrown back.

Headquarters disclosed officially that American troops, operating under First French Army command, are taking part in the attack against the Germans north of Colmar to check the enemy threat to Strasbourg from the south.

Stiff fighting continued north of Colmar and along the southern edge of the Colmar sector, where little change in the situation was reported.

FLEETWINGS MAN UNDER BAIL FOR THEFT OF TOOLS

Robert Rech, Mt. Holly, To Get Hearing In The District Court

BAIL PUT AT $1,000

Report Value of Property Stolen from Plant Here at $800

(By International News Service) TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 26.—Robert Rech, a war worker at the Fleetwings plant in Bristol, Pa., was free under $1,000 bail today following arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Walter Petry in Trenton yesterday on charges of theft of government property.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles G. Hyman attending the hearing on behalf of the Federal government, said that Rech signed his own bail bond which was made returnable to the U. S. District Court in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania where Rech is slated to be called up for indictment and trial.

Following the hearing yesterday afternoon, Rech was released pending action of U. S. Attorney's office in Philadelphia. He was believed to have returned to his Mt. Holly home which was raided by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who had been suspicious of his actions.

The FBI agents were said to have found numerous building tools and other material and equipment in the home which allegedly had been stolen from the Fleetwings plant. The government property taken from the plant was reportedly valued at between $800 and $1,000.

Rech had been sleeping when the agents called to make the search.

Special authorization already has been granted for his removal to Philadelphia for trial in the Federal Court.

FLAMES DAMAGE ELKS' CLUB IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(INS)—Fire broke out today in the Elks Club in Central Philadelphia and raged unchecked through the three-story landmark as firemen battled the gale-fanned flames in sub-freezing temperatures.

Heavy damage was believed to have been caused as flames virtually destroyed all the contents of the second floor, where the blaze originated. No one was reported injured.

The building was soon covered with a sheet of ice, despite the intense heat of the flames, as firemen poured tons of water on the blazing structure from a score of hoses. Seven employees of an engraving company's plant in an adjoining building were routed as wind-borne embers menaced surrounding structures.

MANPOWER RELIEF

Two items of European news indicate that the manpower problem which is troubling the Allied countries, and especially the United States, will be alleviated as time passes. The Allies are beginning to avail themselves of the services of people formerly within Nazi clutches.

The war minister of France, Andre Diethelm, announces that by late spring France will have an army of 1,200,000 men equipped with American material and ready to take its place in the battle lines along the Western Front. Regardless of whether this army is of first-class caliber, it can at least relieve the Allies of the necessity of providing some of the manpower they otherwise would need in driving into Germany. Creation of this large French army should be reflected in the rate of conscription in the United States several months from now.

On the other side of Europe, Roumania announces that work battalions of men and women of German origin, ranging from 18 to 45 years of age, are being formed. These battalions are being employed in the destroyed areas on the Eastern Front. The plan is Russia's. Moscow has a program laid out to take millions of Germans, as Germany took millions of Frenchmen and other Europeans, transport them to Russia and put them to work to repair the damage caused by the Nazi armies.

Whether Britain and the United States plan to get work out of the Germans has not been announced. But Russia is beginning to apply that policy early and expects to continue it for years.

GARDEN FORESIGHT

Within sixty days preparations for Victory garden making in the northern latitudes will be in order. That does not mean that the seedbed will be ready. But the gardener who is forehanded will be looking to the implements and the layout of the patch to be prepared to take advantage of the first soil-warming weather.

A good seed bed is more than half the battle, and it takes time to bring about a fine tilth. The gardener who pulverizes the last clod is on his way to gratifying results in all those toothsome vegetables which are more appreciated when a person raises them himself.

Some seasons prove favorable for peak production and some yield lumpy returns. To a degree some of that eventuality is in the laps of the gods. But labor in a garden makes a good year more generous and a poor year leaner.

The food situation the world over is such that it invites the individual to back in and do his bit in adding something to the common store of good things to eat. In the past this locality has distinguished itself by going into vegetable gardening with enthusiasm and it should get set early this year to repeat.

The "Stop Rundstedt" movement is meeting with ever-increasing success.

would work at whatever job Hillman picked for him at whatever wages Byrnes or someone else agreed to.

He would buy what the bureaucrats would let him buy.

At every turn he would face questionnaires, registration blanks, application forms, and bushels of directives—and when something went wrong, he would have, not a jury trial or a court review, but a fresh young New Deal Democrat to tell him what the penalty was.

The meeting of the Fathers and Mothers Association will take place on Tuesday evening. The senior Walther League meets on Thursday evening; Sunday School teachers meet next Friday evening at 8:30.

Cornwells Methodist Church

P. Paul Freeman, pastor; Sunday School, 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11:15, sermon "The Way Into the Holiest;" Vespers, seven, sermon, "Twice-Born Men;" young people meet at 8:15 p. m.

Bensalem Methodist Church

Jan. 28th: Sunday School service, 9:45, under leadership of Mrs. Margaret Cole, who will interpret the picture used in the "Crusade For Christ;" Jean Yeagle will provide a piano selection, "Ivory Palaces;" morning worship, 11, the Rev. Brodhead will bring a message on "Halfway Christians."

All receiving pledge cards for the "Crusade For Christ" and being unable to present them at the Sunday morning service, are asked to mail them to the chairman of the finance committee, John Gottsabend, Humsville. All pledges must be in before the end of the month but donors have the entire year to fill pledges. Young Adults' monthly party, Saturday evening, at the Yeagle home. Plans will also be made to entertain those who do not skate.

If he protested, he would face new and unusual punishments—loss of his rationing card, draft into some type of labor battalion, loss of his union standing, loss of his chance to hold a job.

To go in business, he would have to make peace with New Deal political leeches who could grant or deny credit—who could stop his necessary priorities or start labor trouble if he failed to heed their bidding.

America has waited long to see what actually was meant by the term, "the more abundant life."

The definition now is becoming very easy to read.

SPARROWS IN TIE FOR LEAGUE LEAD IN TRENTON AREA

Fleetwings Five Defeats The Majorettes by Score

ROHM & HAAS WINS

Chemical Girls Score Win
Over Victoryettes By
Score of 32-11

The Fleetwings Sparrows entered a tie for first place in the Trenton Playgroup League by defeating the Majorettes on the Junior No. 4 floor. It was the first defeat of the season for the Majorettes who have held the league lead since the start of the season. A play-off game will be held in the near future.

The Bristol girls held a 19-10 lead at half-time but the Majorettes cut into the advantage and deadlocked the score at 24-24 with two minutes to go. But Betty Duffy decided with a field goal and a pair of fouls.

Marian Gillenwater led the Wingers in scoring with 14 points while Larson and Kushner starred for the losers.

The Rohm and Haas girls scored a 32-11 victory over the Victoryettes, in another league game. Gallagher and Bachofer led the chemical mixers to the triumph.

On Tuesday night, January 30th, the Fleetwings and Rohm and Haas girls will clash on the Rohm and Haas floor.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Here's one for the books . . . received a letter from a former Bristol sportsman the other day when Pvt. Howard L. Zepp, now with an Army unit in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, wrote and told me some interesting facts about pheasant hunting out there.

He said South Dakota had almost 17 million pheasants last Fall, almost twice as many as the entire chicken population of that State. I didn't believe it and he said he knew I wouldn't so just to prove his statement he sent along a clipping from the January 7th issue of the Daily Argus-Leader, a Sioux Falls newspaper.

Not only did the clipping verify Pvt. Zepp's story, but it pointed out that in many sections of the State the pheasant population exceeds 200,000 birds per county! Incredible, isn't it?

Howard said he missed the hunting here in Pennsylvania but he hoped that after the war he will be successful in making a trip back to South Dakota to hunt pheasants. Personally, I hope I'm one of the members of that hunting party. He said if you didn't knock down at least ten birds in a morning that you had a poor morning.

I know a couple of fellows around here who managed to get ten birds during the entire 1944 Pennsylvania season, but most of the hunters did not get that many.

Here are some of the highlights of the newspaper clipping that Pvt. Zepp sent me:

"A pheasant strutted his gay plumage for every three acres of South Dakota land at the start of last fall's hunting season.

"The figures are based on observations of 1,200 farmers made to the State Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting service, which announced that the state had a total pheasant population of 16,700,000 in late September of 1944. This is 44 per cent more than the number of chickens in the state's farm flocks.

"The kill in the 1942-43 season was 4,500,000 birds and that in 1943-44 was 3,168,000 pheasants.

"Farmers who replied to the crop reporting service questionnaire were divided on the economic effects of the pheasant on agriculture. 65 per cent of the farmers reporting consider pheasants did no damage or were of no benefit or were actually of some benefit to agriculture. The remaining 35 per cent felt pheasants were the cause of a net loss to the farm. Reports of damage were more numerous and indicated greater loss of crops as the density of the pheasant population increased.

"Summarizing the farm reports, the crop reporting service said 29 of the state's 69 counties each had at least 200,000 pheasants at the start of the fall hunting season.

"Ten South Dakota counties had more than 75 birds per hundred acres of land, with one county reporting 132 birds per 100 acres.

"The pheasant population at the present time, after weeks of being hunted, cannot be estimated because Elmer Peterson, Game and Fish Commission director, said he does not yet know the number of licenses issued or the average bag."

Meeting Tuesday . . . The Edgely Rod and Gun Club is holding a meeting Tuesday, January 30, at the Headley Manor-Fire House at 8 p. m. Election of officers and payment of dues for the year will take place. All sportsmen are invited.

Improvement of diet, establishment of courses in mid-wifery, etc., have been part of China's advanced program in years past. Some of this work was necessarily cut short with the invasion by the Japanese. The great battle which Chiang Kai Shek found on his hands with the Communists was gone into in detail. Mr. Johnson mentioning that as the Russians trained officers for the Chinese army, there was much propagandizing in Communism. The atrocities of the Communists in holding up entire cities and towns for ransom were mentioned. One city, famed for its porcelain, was held up to the tune of one million dollars was one case cited. "In that case, the city fathers were suspended by their thumbs, candles lighted beneath their feet, and when they failed to give in, wedges of bamboo were driven under their finger-nails and toe-nails.

Countless cases of international intrigue were recalled, one case in particular being that of three Finnish women missionaries allegedly killed in China "upon orders from Russian leaders."

In summing up Mr. Johnson said: "Getting the world to live at peace is vastly more than getting a series of signatures on dotted lines."

"Disputes will continue. Whether we can bring them to a peaceable conclusion is what will count."

He then reviewed accomplishments of China during the past few years, making mention of the vast north-south railway; the increase in a three-year period of but 50 miles of railroad to four trunk lines; and other smaller lines; the great building plan for hospitals, medical schools, etc. How many plans were interrupted was told by the speaker, as he contrasted a China blocked for six years and fighting an enemy with all her might with inadequate munitions. To prove China's ability to fight he reminded that each year for six years the Chinese have turned back the Japanese attempting to take one large city. "Forty thousand Japs" lay dead after one ambush."

Bandages are oft-times washed and re-washed for re-use until they are nothing but shreds. "We have in China a worthy ally. An ally who has lost thousands upon thousands! Her total losses are more than the totals of all other nations, ally or enemy, engaged in this war. And China will be in there fighting at the end!"

ed upon coming upon an accident wherein a sedan (not identified) crashed into the traffic guard rails. The sedan was disintegrated by the guard rails and gotten back onto the road when the car driven by the Rev. Murphy, came along, swerved from the sedan and then swerved again and hit the rear of the truck.

Fox was called to the witness stand by Coroner Rigby and was told that in accordance with his constitutional rights he did not have to testify. Fox's attorney declined to permit his client to testify in his own case but was willing for him to testify in the case of the Rev. Murphy. This he did.

He described how he had arrived at the scene of the first accident and had parked his truck so as to go and give aid if it was needed. Then he told of the car operated by the Rev. Murphy crashing into the rear of his truck. A driver of another truck to testify and who told about the same story as Fox was Charles J. Street, Philadelphia.

The Rev. Murphy called to the stand informed the jury that he and the Rev. Thomas P. Classick were driving from Trenton going west on Route 1 and reached a point approaching Janney where the highway separates into a "Y." Left of the "Y" is for east-bound traffic and right of the "Y" is for west-bound traffic. The witness said that he approached the center of the "Y" and saw that a sedan had crashed into a guard rail and posts.

He saw that the car had been righted and he cut to the right of the sedan which had hit the guard rail and then suddenly saw a big truck ahead of him. Rev. Murphy stated that the right side of his car piled into the left side of the truck. In answer to a question he stated that his attention had been focused on the sedan. He thought that he had been driving about 35 miles per hour. His lights were dim.

30th anniversary of Kiwanis International on Tuesday.

"What An Outsider Thinks of Kiwanis in Doylestown," was the rather unique subject of Rotarian Freeman. "I can assure you that the only difference between Kiwanis and Rotary, so far as I am concerned is the emblem," the Rev. Mr. Freeman declared. "Those of us on the outside, look upon Kiwanis as a very progressive club."

"Your Kiwanis club has always sought out a project and then carried it through, and I know that the people of this community appreciate what your club has done for boys and girls and the underprivileged youngsters."

"All underprivileged are not poor, by a long shot; many are well-to-do, and Kiwanis, I find, has taken on projects that include both classes."

Mr. Freeman said that in order to function normally and have all the privileges, it is necessary to function in three areas—the body, the soul and the mind.

Lehigh and Montgomery Counties. Lester Seidel, his instructor, reports he is a good student, well liked and becoming established in farming with his father. He owns four purebred dairy cows, 175 laying hens, brooder house and range shelter, which are part of his school project.

He attended the meeting with other FFA students from the area, accompanied by S. L. Forst, county adviser. Five other students from the district also received honors.

case as one example of the detection and arrest of an enemy agent. Information in this case gave his whereabouts as in the Poconos. With the co-operation of several members of the American Legion the trail was picked up which eventually led to his arrest at Cleburn, Wash. "The co-operation of the public is many times responsible for and always needed as an aid in the detection and apprehension of foreign agents."

"The Gestapo take great pains in training and supplying their agents with all information and accessories to carry on their work. False social security cards, draft cards and even clothing labels are cleverly duplicated, and they are well supplied with United States currency."

"From information received by our intelligence agents abroad it is known that the Gestapo will hold an iron hand until the close of the war, because parents are not even safe at times from their own children who belong to the various youth societies and who are required to repeat all conversations which are anti-Nazi. In every block and district the Gestapo has placed informers. The methods of the Nazis are harsh but very efficient."

The speaker then outlined many of the methods used to spread propaganda in this country and among allies with the hope of dividing those on the allied side. Typical of these cases is that of spreading the false information that the American Red Cross was selling blood-plasma to boys who were wounded and needed transfusions. The President, himself, had to deny this before greater damage was done to this worthy cause.

Some of the chief problems at home were then explained such as the impersonation of members of the armed forces. Evasion of the selective service act was discussed, and the methods used to track down these cases were explained. With the aid of local police chiefs and their personnel the Bureau of Investigation has supplied the equivalent of six divisions to the army and navy.

War fraud cases were told of and methods of detection carefully outlined. In many cases the actual information which led to the discovery of these cases was uncovered by accountants of the department who discovered discrepancies in the books which were only revealed after detailed study. Typical was the trick of suspending several steel railroad rails under a truck which carried goods into war plants, where the weight of the load determined the cost to the industries and the government.

Mr. Sears held a question period and many pertinent questions were answered.

Guests of the Exchangeites for the evening were PFC Harry Jones, of the U. S. Marine Corps; and Sgt. Charles Ibrig, of the army.
